UBILEE Year: a time to look back with pride, to reflect with thankfulness. to ponder thoughtfully on past tribulations and trials; a time, too, to look forward with hope, to plan with resolve and to launch into the future with faith. This will be the chief concern of all those associated with Hongkong University in this 50th anniversary of its founding.

For this is a landmark in Its history, appropriately coinciding with a stage of momentous development In the Colony's own history unlike any it has ever known. The course to be taken by the University in the future will therefore -best be decided by a care-· ful study of present day conditions and needs.

If the past has one lesson for the University it is that there has never been, until recently, sufficient stimulus to bring to full flower an institution that has been budding with promise for the last 50 years. Local olrcumstances - all well to retard its growth.

DUCATION in Hongkong was a rare and expensive luxury. The local business community moreover either imported talent from abroad or else sided with the observation Lord Melbourne once made to Queen Victoria: "I don't know why they make all this fuss about education; none of the Pagets can read or write, and they get on well enough".

But to its everlasting credit University weathered by a number of splendid gifts, survived public indifference. And today its position is unassailable. And how will the University develop? It is worth thinking how helpless and hamstrung the Colony would be today without its own university-trained doctors, teachers, architects and engineers to realise how disorder. necessary consolidation and expansion is for the future. A survey of current needs is essential — but that is not enough.

TUBILEE Year, whatever it does, focusses public attention on this institution and its contribution to society. A jubilee appeal fund is to be opened and the extent to which expansion can take place will depend on community's response. We go so far as to say that the in vain unless they manage interest in the University.

In addition to planning ahead, the University will be conto maintain but improve said. existing standards, and to new ventures it underword: In every stage of its present development Hongkong has had to plan carefully within its means. MACLEOD NOT LAST CS

London, Jan. 9. The Financial Times today printed a long interview with Mr Iain Macleod in which he said he thought it "very unlikely indeed" that he would be Britain's last Colonial Secretary. "I am certain." he added.

"that I have my hands very full now." The Foreign Editor of the newspaper asked him, "If you were a European settler in any part of British East or Central Africa, how long would you expect final control of your affairs to rest with Mr Macleod or his successors in London?'

IN INTERESTS Mr Macleod said control would last just as long as the United Kingdom Government felt they must retain it in the interests of all the inhabitants in the territories.

The Colonial Secretary was questioned as to his attitude towards other countries assisting Britain's dependent territories-in view of the limited volume of public funds available in the United Kingdom. Mr Macleod said they welcomed assistance from other friendly countries, in the free world, and, of course, from the United Nations.—China Mall

London, Jan. 9. The possibility that the Lithgow Group of companies in the UK-one of the biggest private shipbuilding organisations in the world—will establish shipyards in South America, was announced by Sir William Lithgow, Chairman of Lithgows Ltd., on his return to Scotland recently from a six-week tour of South America.

He said it was probable that the Lithgow Group would begin !to invest in one or other of the Latin American countries, not only for economic reasons, but to provide an outlet for its products. "Shipbuilding liself is being considered," he said, "and this need not necessarily be confired to smaller craft,"

Later Sir William announced: "Our old ellents, the Jamaica Bunana Producers Association, have confirmed their intention to sign a contract with us for the construction of a 200,000 cubic ft. fast banana carrier for the UK/Jamaloa service. have promised to do our best to deliver the ship in time to replace the Jamaica Producer, built by us for the same owners before the war."-LPS.

Though not fully agreed methods, Britain and India are seen as both wishing to work within the framework left by the 1954 Geneva conference on Indo-China. This framework includes a three-power international supervisory commission (India as chairman, with Canada) and Poland), reporting to the Britain co-chairmen, and the Soviet Union.

Britain cool

Canada, however, is reported to want to send out to Lnos representatives of the three commission members acting individually rather than as a team, while efforts are made in the meantline to reconvene the 1954 Geneva conference on Indo-China.

An absence of teamwork of observers on the spot, it was felt here, would hardly promote cohesion between East and West but might aggravate tensions.

Britain was furthermore regarded as extremely cool towards the idea of any international conference which might yield only propaganda, and wrangling, while the situation inside Laos deteriorated.

Novertheless, the motives behind Canada's attitude were recognised as prompted by a desire to get speedy international action to relieve tension. At the same time Britain has to agree with India on how to revive the commission before approaching again the other co-chairman, the Soviet Union.

Martin sets a new trend

By RICHARD BERRY

Paris, Jan. 9. A new art "sensation" seems to come along just about every few days—and lasts about the same time. But the sculptures of Etienne Martin, which are currently being hailed by the Paris critics, seem likely to last longer.

Martin's work is huge—and rare. At his first one-man show, now taking place, he exhibits only two works called 'dwellings."

They are made of white plaster smeared over frames of iron One is a rough affair with tongues slicking out of round win-dows. The other is an intricate structure of ledges, leicles and yawning caverns.

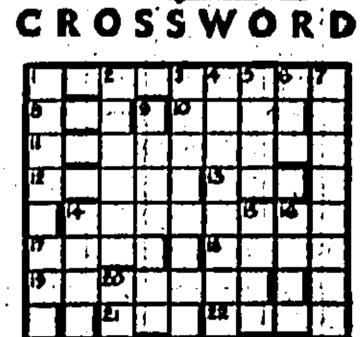

MYSTERY

"This is an age," says Martin, "In which the individual artist... an anarchist—fixes his own rules. Today one must be cor-cerer as well as sculptor." He says his dwellings were inspired by his own boyhood home with all its sheltering and frightening mysteries. Loriol, 67 miles from Lyons, He was born there 47 years ago. He became interested in art "because I was no good at any-thing clse and my family pre-ferred art to nothing." He studied at Lyons Beaux Arts and went on to Paris, He was working in Paris for yours before a dealer took film up. Perhaps the reason for his long wait for recognition is that Martin refused to take himself scriously. Of one series of sculptures he produced he said: "They're a question mark to Southampton, Jan. 9. The 12,615-ton liner Dunera is to be reflitted as Britain's first educational and holiday cruise ship, it was announced.

She is now embarking passengers here for her last voyage—to the Middle East — as a troopship. When she returns to Britain on February 5, she will be converted into a "travelling classroom."

The liner will accommodate 800 boys and girls over 12 travelling in organised parties with adult leaders. They will combine ocean travel and visits to foreign countries essential studies aboard. Six lecture rooms and a teaching staff are being provided.

This year, 16 cruises are being arranged to Scandinavia and other European countries. Students' fares will range from £28 to £34.

ON SEX EDUCATION

SAYS TEACHER

London, Jan. 9: A plea for sex education in British schools by qualified people was made by an executive of the National Union of Teachers.

Addressing the modern school section of the N.U.T. conference, Mr W. A. Baker sald he believed teachers should "take the plunge, stick their necks out, express opinions and put into practice experiments to get rid of social dangers.

"There seems to be a departure from moral standards these days, particularly so far as sex is concerned," he went on, "We have failed, as a profession and ns a community, adequately to instruct children in the attributes of using these powers of production of life — and a good life — rather than for the abuse of a good life," he said.
